Renting is the best option

LGGA is an enterprising mid-sized law firm that uses various media for customer loyalty, knowledge transfer, and lead generation. In addition to a modern website, events and podcasts are essential communication tools. There are many different ways to create videos, from hosting a webinar with a decent webcam to employing a crew of professionals with all the necessary equipment. The GetyourStudio proposition was immediately appealing because it was complete, ready to use, and suited for self-starting. We initially used RentyourStudio for an important hybrid event. Renting the studio for one day, including a specialist, relieved a lot of stress and definitely contributed to a successful event.

Full-service law firm

"The RentyourStudio proposition immediately appealed to us. We have tried everything, and this is the perfect combination of professionalism, good video results, and complete unburdening. We have now planned more events with video, and the question is whether it will be rented or purchased. We are flexible renting, and with purchasing, we can put our knowledge on video daily. Hours are scarce in the legal profession, and that could well be the consideration for buying".
